Communists Rebuffed In Italy

Red Grip On Nation Weakens

Voters Back Christian Dems

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP)—Returns from Italy's crucial elections indicated today a smashing anti-communist victory and Vice Premier Giuseppe Saragat announced "the communists will not be admitted into Italy's new government."

ROME — (AP) — Returns from three-fourths of Italy's senatorial districts today gave the American-backed Christian Democratic party almost half the total vote in the crucial election battle between Russia and the west.

Early returns on the chamber of deputies indicated a similar crushing defeat for the communists. The returns raised the possibility that the anti-communists had seized undisputed control of both houses of the new parliament.

The interior ministry's tabulations on the senate vote, counted first, gave the Christian Democrats 8,171,569, or 44.4 per cent of the vote. The popular front coalition of Communist and left-wing Socialists got 5,382,976 votes, or 31.3 per cent.

Returns from 4,478 of 41,525 sections in the vote for the chamber gave the Christian Democrats 2,131,608; the front, 936,207, and the anti-communist Socialists, 269,393.

The votes for minor parties swelled the anti-communist total. Alcide de Gasperi, Italy's Christian Democratic premier, said the returns were beyond his fondest dreams.

The communists had very little to say.

CLAIMS ACTIVE ROLE

Pietro Ingrao, director of the Communist party newspaper, l'Unita, declared in a formal statement that the communist-dominated popular front "without any doubt will represent a decisive element in the future parliament and in the country."

The partial returns so far in, from both senatorial and chamber of deputies contests, showed the Christian Democrats running ahead of the popular front almost everywhere, even in the north, where the left has its greatest strength.

A ministry of interior communique, issued at noon, referred to the "complete prevalence" of the Catholic party. Only a sharp reversal in the trend now can fulfil communist hopes of winning Italy to the side of Russia at the ballot boxes.

An Associated Press tabulation of official chamber of deputy returns from 4,183 precincts of the 41,647 in the nation gave the Christian Democrats 1,334,198 votes to 787,085 for the front, almost two to one. The returns were scattered from north to south, all urban.

The anti-communist socialist wing, allied with the Christian Democrats in the government, was running third with 240,633 votes.

Blaze Destroys Chemical Plant

LISBON—(AP)—Fire believed to have started from spontaneous combustion early today destroyed the Hood Chemical company plant.

There was no estimate of the damage. The plant, which manufactured household chemicals for cleaning and other purposes, was purchased several months ago from the National Brass and Copper company for $250,000.

Palestine Trusteeship Plan Offered

U. S. Proposal Lists 47 Points

BULLETIN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — (UP)—The United States told the United Nations today it would provide American troops to impose a trusteeship government on Palestine provided selected other countries of the U.N. also contribute some forces.

★

LAKE SUCCESS —(AP)— The United States today offered for United Nations consideration a 47-point trusteeship plan for Palestine.

There was no commitment of American troops. The document, labeled by American spokesman as a group of suggestions and not a formal proposal, dodged a stand on who should maintain peace in the Holy Land.

Embodying most of the previous informal United States suggestions, the plan said merely that a group of nations to be selected later should defend Palestine and keep order.

Delegate Warren R. Austin presented the draft plan to the assembly's 58-nation political committee, which began consideration of the whole Palestine problem. The fate of the assembly's 1947 decision to partition the Holy Land will be decided during the debate.

The American document was a combination of 15 general principles put before the security council by Austin and the draft statute for the city of Jerusalem prepared by the U.N. trusteeship council. The plan was circulated privately to council members last week but Austin received clearance from Washington only yesterday for public presentation.

The trusteeship could be terminated by assembly agreement on a permanent plan of government or by successful plebiscite on a permanent plan.

The vote could not be taken for at least three years. In theory, this would mean that partition could eventually be put into effect. However, Arab opposition to the splitup scheme is not expected to diminish.

The plan provides for a U.N.-appointed governor-general with virtual dictator powers. He would rule the Holy Land with an advisory council until a trusteeship government could be set up.

Firing of Police Officer Upheld

Building Plans Due By May 10

Newman School Next In Project

Plans for the new Newman school on Central avenue will be completed by May 10, Architect Charles Conklin told the board of education last night.

The board examined the plans, which are nearly complete, and then agreed to meet on or about May 10 to approve the plans and to authorize the clerk of the board to advertise for bids for the new school which will cost an estimated $350,000.

The Newman building is a unit of the $2,000,000 grade school and library program which also includes new West Fifth and Roseland buildings and the Western avenue addition, all now under construction.

The Newman building, which will face Central avenue, will be located between Grace street and Spring street, will be one story high.

PROVIDES 14 ROOMS

It will contain 14 classrooms in addition to a school and public library, a lunchroom and a gymnasium. The structure probably will be surfaced with red brick and will be "U" shaped.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said plans call for the abandonment of the present Newman school when the new one is completed.

The board also authorized the clerk to advertise for bids for the installation of a septic tank and an eight-inch sewer line from the Roseland school north to the creek near Rosemont avenue.

Wooing Long, Wedding Brief

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — William Walter Carlton, 49, wants his marriage to Gratia Flower Carlton, 45, of Cincinnati, annulled.

He courted her for 20 years, but their marriage lasted less than a day, Carlton charged in a suit filed in circuit court yesterday.

Carlton said they were married Sept. 3, 1947, at Tazewell, Va. The bride then had him drive here to her mother's home at Ironton, O. On Sept. 27 she told him the marriage was "a mistake," the suit sets out.

SENTENCED—John L. Lewis, cigar in hand, hat shoved back on his head, leaves federal district court in Washington where today Judge T. Alan Goldsborough fined him $20,000 and his United Mine Workers $1,400,000 on a conviction of criminal contempt. In background are John Owens (left), secretary-treasurer of Lewis's United Mine Workers, and Attorney Welly K. Hopkins (right).

Farm Values Soaring High

New Land Boom Now At Dizzy 1920 Peak

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war-born farm land boom has reached the dizzy heights at which the last one exploded to bring tragedy to thousands of farmers.

The agriculture department reported today farm land values on March 1 had climbed to the record of March, 1920—a level that collapsed shortly thereafter.

Sparking the current boom, the department said, is the continued high farm product prices and record farm income.

Whether the present boom might collapse like the earlier one, the department did not try to forecast. The sharp break in land prices in 1920 followed a steep decline in foreign buying of American food.

Officials said there are no signs now of any big drop in foreign demand. In fact, the multi-billion-dollar European Recovery program is expected to maintain a good foreign farm product market for another year or more.

LAND PRICES DOUBLE

Land values now average slightly more than twice those of the 1935-39 period. They gained an average of 6.8 per cent during the past year.

The largest increases were reported in the wheat and range-livestock areas, where farm incomes have been unusually high since 1941.

North Dakota had the largest 1947 increase—20 per cent. Advances of more than 16 per cent were reported for South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

Only three states—Florida, Louisiana and California—reported lower average values than a year ago. Lower prices for citrus and other fruits were said to have had a depressing effect on land values in Florida and California.

Kuhn Faces Prison Term

MUNICH—(UP)—Fritz Kuhn, former fuehrer of the German-American bund in the United States, was sentenced in absentia to 10 years at hard labor by a denazification court today.

Kuhn, who walked out of the Dachau internment camp last Feb. 3, was tried in absentia by the Munich denazification tribunal. The court ordered the confiscation of all his property above 3,000 marks (nominally $300) in value.

While awaiting trial Kuhn, 52, disappeared from the Dachau camp with a little apparent trouble. By all signs, concern over his escape was at a minimum among both the Germans and the American occupation authorities.

Housing Bill Vote Sought

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Supporters of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill hope for a final Senate vote today.

The possibility arose that the showdown over public housing may be averted by a compromise.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) one of the authors of the measure, predicts passage by tonight. He said "I think a compromise can be worked out" on the public housing issue.

Such a compromise would clear the way for probable swift action on the bill which is aimed at channelling $5,000,000,000 of public and private funds into the housing field to erect 7,500,000 new dwelling units in the next five years.

The major difference for Taft and Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) to iron out with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), is McCarthy's insistence that relief families be given top priority, along with war veterans, on public housing subsidized with federal money.

Authorizations To Be Asked

Church Council Launched

The first step toward organizing a Mansfield Council of Churches and Christian Agencies was taken last night at a meeting in First Methodist church.

Representatives of Richland county churches and Christian association agreed to seek authorization from their various groups and to meet May 24 to perfect the organization.

Rev. C. W. Stoneburner explained that the council would be designed to coordinate all religious work in the county. He outlined suggested departments of work.

The May 24 meeting also will be held in First Methodist church.

John Linsenmayer presided and opened the meeting with devotions.

A committee, consisting of the pastor, of executive officer, two laymen and a youth will represent each group which joins the council.

Sewer To Curb Flooding

Work to Start On Big Line

Work on a 36-inch sanitary sewer interceptor from Wayne street to the Ashland road along the west bank of the Rocky Fork will begin tomorrow, Sanitary Engineer B. V. BeVier revealed today.

The line, to be constructed by R. O. Darling, will run parallel to the present 20-inch line and is designed to relieve the burden on that line.

BeVier said he hopes that it will reduce the flooding of basements in the area northeast of the Rocky Fork and in portions of the west side of the city.

The present 20-inch line is partially blocked, BeVier said, but cause of the block is undetermined.

SPEEDS FLOW

"Not only will the 36-inch line carry more sewage, but it will carry it faster," BeVier said. "The present 20-inch line is full of kinks and these definitely slow the rate of flow."

BeVier said that plans are complete for another siphon under the Rocky Fork at the Ashland road which carries sewage from the northeast section of the city into the main line and then to the sewage treatment plant.

This particular point has been a headache for the sewage department. The present single siphon is not adequate to service all the sewage that flows through that point and has been responsible for many flooded basements, the sanitary engineer said.

Guard Killed By Prisoner

COLUMBUS —(INS)— A 68-year-old Ohio penitentiary guard was dead and another given only a 50-50 chance of recovery today after a 220-pound prisoner ran amok with a butcher knife last night.

A third guard also was stabbed but his condition was "good."

Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis said the prisoner, John Thomas, 34, escaped from the "strong ward" of the prison hospital, where he was being held for psychiatric investigation.

The slain guard was Walter W. Zimmer, who was stabbed three times with a knife Thomas procured in the prison kitchen.

Samuel P. Chesshir, 54, was in critical condition with a deep stab wound in the chest. The third guard, Frank C. Lower, 38, was attacked when he went to the aid of Chesshir. Thomas was recaptured after 15 minutes.

State welfare department spokesmen said investigation showed no sign of negligence. They indicated no action will be taken against Thomas until the outcome of the two guards' injuries is known.

Spry Health Crusader To Wed at 80

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. —(UP)—Bernarr MacFadden, 79-year-old crusader for health and beauty who is also campaigning for governor of Florida, today planned to wed a beautiful, blonde 42-year-old grandmother.

He announced that he will marry Jonnie Lee, New York interior decorator who has been lecturing for a "long, long time on lasting youth, beauty and power of mind" under the auspices of the Bernarr MacFadden Health foundation.

The blond, attractive bride-to-be, who was divorced in Reno in 1942, said MacFadden "wanted a combination of a woman out of her 20's, but not getting old." She added:

"He wanted a woman with charm, glamor, sex appeal and intelligence. I guess I was the first to fill the bill completely."

He was divorced early in 1946 from the former Mary Williamson, concluding a romance that began in 1912 when she won a "Body Beautiful" contest in his Physical Culture magazine.

Decision Skips Jail Sentence For Mine Boss

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis today was fined $20,000 and his United Mine Workers $1,400,000 for contempt of a court's stop-strike order.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough accepted a government recommendation for those fines, but said it had been his own inclination to send Lewis to jail.

The fines are just double what the bushy-browed UMW chief and his miners had to pay after they similarly were found guilty in 1946 of contempt for ignoring a court's stop-strike order.

Then Goldsborough fined Lewis $10,000 and the union $3,500,000, but the Supreme Court cut the union's fine to $700,000.

The fines Goldsborough imposed today were only for criminal contempt. The judge granted a government motion to consider a penalty for civil contempt against Lewis and the union on Friday.

Lewis and the union each were held guilty by the judge yesterday of both civil and criminal contempt.

In civil contempt, penalties are usually based on damages done. So penalties are often fixed to increase if damages continue.

This might result in Goldsborough's imposing a daily penalty in event the miners do not work in protest against the criminal contempt fines.

Many were out of the mines today, waiting to see the outcome of the case.

Lewis's attorney, Welly K. Hopkins, filed notice of intention to appeal the contempt conviction. This was done immediately after sentence was imposed.

While Lewis sat stony-faced, Goldsborough told him in passing sentence:

"If this court was to use its individual judgment it would impose a prison sentence."

ACCEPTS U. S. ADVICE

But the judge added he was only one man and was accepting advice of the government.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison had recommended only the fines and said nothing about prison.

He declared that the defendants (Lewis and the UMW) "have chosen to set themselves above the procedures of law and to disregard entirely a law of the United States and the mandate of this court issued pursuant to that law."

He said that Lewis and the union had "wilfully failed" to obey the April 3 court order.

When Morison concluded, Hopkins, the union's lawyer, told the judge such fines as the government suggested would inflict "grievous injuries" on the miners.

He said the penalties asked for "were without parallel."

Morison told reporters after the court hearing that the reason for delaying the civil contempt sentencing until Friday was to exercise a club over Lewis and the union to get all the miners back to work.

He said another heavy fine—and even a jail penalty against Lewis—is possible if all the miners are not back at work by that time.

"The idea is to provide time to see what they will do by Friday," Morison said.

Asked specifically if the justice department may recommend jail for Lewis if part of the miners are still out Friday, Morison said: "We might."

Costa Rican Insurgents Win Revolt

President Picado Admits Defeat

SAN JOSE, C. R.—(UP)—President Teodoro Picado resigned today and announced that the unconditional surrender of his military forces to those of Gen. Jose Figueres, leader of an uprising against the government, would be effected within 24 hours.

Picado prepared to leave the country as soon as possible. He turned over his power to a provisional government headed by Santos Leon Herrera, 74, third vice president.

Herrera will serve as president until May 8, by which time the new government was expected to be set up and functioning.

Father Benjamin Nunez, representative of Figueres in negotiations to end the civil war, outlined the new government's program in an official document.

It promised that social guarantees would be respected, labor laws would be expanded to include the right to strike, social security would be bulwarked, and adequate food would be provided for workers.

The published document also promised to speed a land distribution program, assure the continuance of the "democratic system," guarantee freedom of thought and speech and liberty of political action.

Bulletin

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—More than 135,000 miners struck again today in protest against the conviction of John L. Lewis on contempt of court charges. The new walkouts brought the total of soft coal miners idle to approximately 235,000 of the 400,000 men employed in the bituminous industry.

'We Got a Dirty Deal,' Claims Union Spokesman

PITTSBURGH (AP) First reaction of soft coal miners in the field to the fine imposed upon their union and its leader was that "We got a dirty deal."

This was the comment of Baldine Demarco, 35, of Morgan, Pa., recording secretary of UMW Local 2563.

He echoed the sentiments of several miners grouped around a radio in a community restaurant.

Frank Hughes, president of the United Mine Workers District Three at Pittsburgh declared fining of the union and John L. Lewis would not settle the issue.

"We'll just have to wait and see," he said, adding he thought the final answer would be given by the United States supreme court.

Demarco added he "didn't know" what effect the fine would have on the miners return to work.

More than a fourth of the 400,000 soft coal miners were idle today in fresh walkouts stemming from the Lewis contempt conviction.

A representative of United Mine Worker District 5 in Pittsburgh expressed relief at the fine. "That wasn't so bad," he said, "not so bad."

He added, "a jail sentence would have been bad. All the miners would have gone out and that's for sure."

William Hynes, president of UMW District Four in the Uniontown, Pa., field, said miner reaction to the fine was "anybody's guess."

At Pottsville, Pa., Joseph Kershetsky, president of the United Mine Workers District 9, said today's fining of Lewis and the UMW "is a fascist and Nazi decision."

At Springfield, Ill., Hugh White, president of District 12 of the United Mine Workers, recommended today Illinois' striking miners return to the pits immediately.

Some 10,000 Ohio miners stayed away from their jobs today in the face of government penalties against Lewis and his United Mine Workers union.

Style Change: Magazine Cover Girls Getting Shorter, Rounder

NEW YORK—(AP)—The girl on the magazine cover is getting shorter and rounder.

"When I came into this business ten years ago," said Harry Conover, who operates a model agency, "the ideal cover girl was five feet, eight inches tall and weighed 115 to 118 pounds.

"She had a 22-inch waist, 33-inch bosom and 33-inch hips.

"Today the cover girl is an inch shorter, weighs up to 120 pounds and has a 24 waist, 34 bosom and 34½ hips."

His agency stocks beautiful girls on a mass production basis. He has a current inventory of more than 200 photographic and fashion models, and adds about 10 new faces a week as old ones drop out of the game.

Huckstering beauty is a finely developed art as well as a profitable business. One of Conover's contributions has been the invention of catchy names for his products—Melody Johnson, Choo Choo Johnson, Jinx Falkenburg, Candy Jones.

★

Some time ago he changed Miss Jones' name again—to Conover. They have a son now. They named the little fellow Jones Conover.

Teen age models are having a "terrific vogue" now and account for 50 per cent of his agency's business.

"But our teen agers all want to get that sophisticated grown-up look," complained Conover pleasantly, "whereas they can make more money by staying young and fresh-looking. Nothing kills off a model quicker than getting a professional look.

"A girl is old and decrepit in this business at 24 or 25. It eats them up. But if a model is the bored, high fashion type she can go on indefinitely—to 35 or more."

These are the semi-emaciated ladies with a face as expressionless as a catcher's mask who grace the pages of the four-bit fashion magazines.

Conover stresses to his girls that modeling is a short-term career and should be used only as a calling card or stepping stone to some other field—such as movies, the radio or fashion promotion.

Of the 750 or more professional models in New York City Conover estimates only about 75 get the top rate—now $25 an hour, although it climbed to $50 during the war. A girl in this bracket may make from $500 to $750 a week but is lucky to average $350 —while it lasts.

About 300 other girls average $125 to $150 a week. The rest make less. Minimum hourly rate for a Conover model—$7.50.

"It's bad when a girl lets modeling become a religion—when she thinks the whole world is waiting to see her face on next month's cover," said Conover. "Because that just isn't true. When a model gets the idea she is the only one —there's nothing you can do with her."

Asks Court To Set Aside Judgment

'Fraud' Charged In Settlement

John H. Weaver, 263 East Second street, asked common pleas court yesterday to set aside a $1,132 settlement in a damage action. He charged the settlement was effected by fraud and that his own attorney was guilty of misconduct.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch set a hearing on the motion for Saturday at 10:30 a. m.

A journal entry shows that Weaver and the defendant, Nathaniel Burrage, 7 Grandview avenue, agreed to settle the breach of contract case. Weaver had contended that work performed by Burrage in repairing Weaver's house was improperly done.

According to the settlement, Burrage's mechanic's lien on Weaver's house for $809 was to be settled for $275, to be paid by Weaver. The $275 and $89, contributed by Burrage, were then to be paid to sub-contractors, and the lien cancelled.

Weaver asks for a vacation of the judgment on grounds there was irregularity in the obtaining of the judgment, that fraud was practiced by the defendant in obtaining it; that an unavoidable casualty prevented him from prosecuting the case; that there was a compromise settlement of the case by his attorney without his consent and against his advice; and that there was misconduct of his counsel in handling the case.

An accompanying affidavit says Weaver retained Attorneys Marriott and Freehafer and H. Eugene Ryan or Marriott individually to represent him.

Weaver contends the attorneys insisted he enter into a settlement in compromise of the suit, but which he deemed unfair unprofitable, unwise and adds he further refused to authorize his attorneys to make a settlement. He says he insisted that the case go to trial.

He claims the attorneys refused to try the case and without his knowledge entered into a compromise and settlement.

Weaver claims he did not know a settlement had been made and a judgment obtained until notified by the sheriff that an execution had been levied against his premises as a result of the judgment.

The attorney who filed Weaver's motion yesterday was R. E. Hughes of Columbus. William H. Calhoun was attorney for Burrage in the case.

FARMERS HELP A NEIGHBOR—Farm neighbors gave a lift yesterday to bed-ridden Robert Davidson, farmer residing south of Lexington on Route 42. While Davidson (left) and his daughter, Linda Mae, 2, watched from his bedroom window, the farmers quickly plowed, disked and planted with oats an 18-acre field. Three of the eight farmers who brought their tractors to lend a hand are shown at upper right: James Glenn Davidson, H. H. Cleland, William H. Cleland and Robert Witzky. Bottom right, the friendly farmers enjoy dinner at the nearby H. H. Cleland farm so as not to unduly excite Davidson, who has been seriously ill for six weeks. At the table (left to right) are William H. Cleland, H. H. Cleland, Witzky, John Straitmater, Nick Vogel, Paul Reiter and James Davidson. Fred Harick, another helper, is not shown in the picture. Tells of Deal For New Cars

Mansfielder Gave Singleton $6,850

Hubert Holloway, former Mansfield used-car dealer, testified in a Cleveland court yesterday that he gave Jack Singleton $6,850 for three new cars but that he never got the cars or a refund of his money.

The state is preparing to wind up its case against Singleton, a used-car dealer accused of collecting nearly a million dollars for cars he never delivered. Singleton is a former Mansfielder, having been employed here several years ago by Humphreys Manufacturing company.

Holloway was one of the last witnesses to be called by the state in the prosecution of Singleton on 15 counts of larceny by trick.

The trial has been going on for two weeks and the state has called 55 witnesses. Holloway, testimony showed, was one of the hardest hit of Singleton's 459 creditors.

He testified that he gave Singleton $6,600 in checks and $250 in cash on July 14 as full payment for three cars, one for his sister, one for his brother and the other for himself.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Mrs. William H. Junke, 39, died yesterday in a plunge from the W. 25th street end of the Brooklyn bridge.

Sixty Teachers Hear World Traveler

Democratic government, a level of public education sufficient to support such government, and a strong labor movement to protect that government was the remedy for world trouble suggested last night by Irvin R. Kuenzli in speaking before about 60 persons at a Mansfield Federation of Teachers' meeting at First Methodist church.

Kuenzli, executive secretary of the American Federation of Teachers, recently returned from a 49-day 28,000-mile flight around the world. Representatives of the CIO and the AFL were guests at the meeting.

Kuenzli asserted there is a struggle between democracy and totalitarianism today and that there must be a higher level of education if democracy is to survive. People must first be fed and then educated.

He expressed belief the Marshall plan was the answer to the desperate need for food abroad.

TURKEY LANDED

The best solution to the problem of better education is to be found in Turkey, according to Kuenzli. This country is 25 years ahead of the United States in this field, he asserted. Turkey trains its teachers to be community leaders as well as educators. They are taught how to participate in democratic government.

A set of slides on conditions in the countries Kuenzli visited was shown at the conclusion of his address. Kuenzli said this is the only such set of slides in existence today.

The Mansfield teacher organization is the first such local group Kuenzli has visited since his trip around the world. He expressed the hope that his trip would blaze a trail that many other teachers would follow.

William B. Lantz, president of the Mansfield Federation of Teachers, spoke briefly of the groups past accomplishments and announced committees for the year.

The weatherman said showers are probable tonight with partly cloudy and cooler weather due tomorrow.

Cleveland's 79 degrees was the warmest recorded in the state yesterday.

Firemen Called To Tire Plant

Fire which broke out in a drying machine at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company at 5:22 p. m. yesterday resulted in slight damage to the machine. Firemen from Central and No. 2 stations answered the alarm.

At 1:40 p. m. yesterday, Central station firemen went to the Isaly Dairy store on Park avenue west where soot had clogged a hot water heater and caused smoke to fill the building. No damage was reported.

CLEVELAND — One look at the skies this morning almost convinced us that the weatherman, Cleveland Indians and this scribe would have trouble remaining congenial again this year. . . . The first four times we ventured to Cleveland last year the weather adversities cut the Tribe short. . . . Three times it was rain and the fourth snow. . . . But the weatherman promised "fair and warmer" for today. . . . The advance sale for the game topped the 50,000 mark this morning. . . . Manager Lou Boudreau named Mel Harder to coach at first base and Bill McKechnie at third. . . . Vice-President Hank Greenberg's status as a player or coach still has not been determined. . . . If he stays on the Tribe roster as a coach, he may take over the first base station from Harder.

RAPID ROBERT Feller has promised that he won't shoot for records this year. . . . Bobby wants to win 30 games for the first time. . . . The Indians finished spring training Sunday with a record of 21 victories and 14 defeats. . . . Don Kerr, Loudonville eighth grade student, was one of 100 finalists in the Indians' batboy contest. . . . Kerr and Mansfield's Bill Houghton were the only finalists outside the Cleveland area. . . . 5,000 lads competed. . . . Both received two free tickets to an Indian game and an autographed copy of Bob Feller's "Strikeout Story."

BILL VEECK, the sport-shirted gent who reigns as prexy of the Indians, has come up with another choice idea. . . . His babies' bullpen is unique and should increase the Tribe's patronage. . . . The kid's room is in Tower D of the huge lakefront stadium and is replete with dolls, bicycles, play pens, slides, etc., and will accommodate 400 youngsters from two to six. . . . Five women will staff the room while the parents watch the game.

Yanks Take Washington Apart, 12-4

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

Joe McCarthy is back in baseball today — but please, mister, don't remind him.

The former manager of the New York Yankees still doesn't know what hit him in yesterday's American league opener—his first day back since he went into his self-imposed exile a year and a half ago.

Old Connie Mack brought his upstart Philadelphia Athletics to Boston for a Patriot's day morning-afternoon double header, welcomed McCarthy back with a "How are you, Joe?" then proceeded to rip McCarthy's Red Sox apart with a double-barreled 5-4 and 4-2 triumph.

Mack used two World War II vets—Pitchers Phil Marchildon and Lou Brissie—to lead the charge.

PHIL SPACES

Marchildon, shot down by the Germans while he was flying for the Canadian Air Force, and held a prisoner for nearly a year, spaced seven hits over 11 innings to win the first game. Brissie, for whom the doctors once gave up hope after his left leg was nearly torn off by German shrapnel, limited Red Sox sluggers to four hits to win the afternoon tilt.

There were two other openers yesterday—one in each league—and they ran true to form. The world champion New York Yankees spoiled Washington's annual inaugural by knocking the stuffing out of the Senators, 12-4, behind a 16-hit attack.

President Harry Truman—part of a 31,728 turnout—was on hand to throw out the first ball. The way things went for the Nats, he might as well have thrown the others too.

Lanky Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's splendid righthander who fashioned a neat seven-hitter in pitching the Reds to a 4-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates in Cincinnati. A crowd of 32,147 witnessed the contest.

FUEL SWING

The majors get into full swing this afternoon with all other clubs making debuts. In the National league Brooklyn is at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at St. Louis and Chicago at Pittsburgh. The American league has St. Louis at Cleveland, Detroit at Chicago and New York at Washington with Philadelphia and Boston idle.

Boston's unique twin-bill, which began with bright sunshine and ended in a drizzle, drew 22,409 for the morning game and 33,875 for the finale.

Marchildon, winner of 19 games last season, survived a harrowing second inning in which he was slugged for three successive home runs. First Baseman Stan Spence, Shortstop Vern Stephens and Second Baseman Bobby Doerr did the damage.

After drawing abreast with a run in the fifth and two more in the eighth off starter Joe Dobson, the A's tallied two in the top of the 11th. Buddy Rosar doubled, Pete Suder and Eddie Joost singled and Don White flied out to account for the runs.

Brissie, the 23-year-old rookie southpaw, helped win his own game with a two-run single in the fourth inning. He walked only one and struck out seven.

GOES TO HOSPITAL

One of Boston's four hits sent Brissie to the hospital. The hit, a vicious drive by Ted Williams in the sixth, smashed off Brissie's bad leg, an inch above his protective plastic guard. The Anderson, S. C., native fell in agony, but gamely continued after several minutes of rest. As a precautionary measure, he was sent to a hospital after the game for x-rays.

Exploding seven runs in the first inning, featuring home runs by Tommy Henrich and Pitcher Allie Reynolds, the Yankees clinched their victory only minutes after the start.

Dancer Kayoes 613 Pins In 'C' League

Harold Mathews and Don Dancer shared the spotlight in the Commercial "C" bowling league at Colony alleys last night by chalking up the only "600" series rolled in the city.

Mathews got the nod for the top single effort, a 243 final game. It followed games of 214 and 151 giving him a 608.

Dancer's high scoring effort was a 613 series made up of games of 221, 160, and 232. Bill Barnes got into the running for single game honors with a 233 finale but a poor middle game held his total to 580.

Although not aided by any particular high score, Pioneer Printing's consistent bowlers closed in on league-leading Frisch Grocery by whipping them into two of three games. Only one game now separates the two teams.

★

Only one "200" single game and one "500" series was turned in in the Women's Variety league and Donna Schuster got credit for both as she spilled the pins for 151-216-138—505. Runnerup was Lil Le-Munyon who turned in a 154-189-150—493 effort.

Cliff Heaton was elected president of the Club bowling league last night at the Southern hotel. Reggie Bookman is the loop's new vice president while John Swank continues at secretary-treasurer.

Blackwell and Reds Take Over Pirates

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI—(AP)—If it's true that history repeats, look out for those rollicking Reds of Cincinnati.

Back in 1939 the Redlegs launched the National loop campaign a day ahead of the other clubs, with the Pittsburgh Pirates as the foe. The Reds went on to win the pennant—their first in 20 years.

Yesterday, for the second time in history, the Reds opened a day early. Again the Pirates were the foe—and the victim.

With Ewell Blackwell, last year's No. 1 major loop pitcher, handcuffing the Buccaneers with seven blows and whizzing his fast one past 'em in the pinches, the Cincinnati club won 4 to 1.

Practically a whole season of thrills and pomp and ceremony were wrapped up in the inaugural viewed by 32,147 fans.

Maybe it's just as well that the Reds departed for St. Louis and a three game series. The tension was pretty high at the finish.

SAUER HITS ONE

The big blowup came in the eighth after Hank Sauer, the big left fielder who hit 55 home runs for Syracuse last season, banged one over the left field fence with Grady Hatton aboard, to put the Reds out front by 4 to 1.

Babe Young followed with a double, and as the ball rattled around right field he went into second standing up. About eight feet from the bag he crashed into a Pittsburgh player—some folks say it was second sacker Romanus (Monty) Basgall, and others say it was shortstop Stan Rojek—and both went down.

A HOT TIME

Without calling time, Young jumped off the bag, grabbed either Rojek or Basgall, and the fight was on. Players from both teams were around them in a second. So were photographers and umpires. Relief Pitcher Vic Lombardi retrieved Divie Walker's throw from right and tagged Young out, adding to the confusion.

Then the umpires ordered the photographers off the field, and one picture-taker was pushed around more than somewhat. A fan jumped from the stands to aid him, scuffling with Umpire Jocko Conlan. Umpire Beans Reardon stepped in, swinging his mask, but missed.

The police then took over, but too late to keep the right field bleacher fans from showering the greensward with bottles and sundry other articles. Time was called, the field cleaned up, and play resumed.

Tyger Track Team Host To Newark Lads

Mansfield Senior high's track team will engage in a pair of meets this week.

The Tygers will entertain the Newark Wildcats on the Stadium field cinders Thursday afternoon and go to the Urichsville Relays Saturday. Senior high is undefeated in duel meet competition this year and took 15th place in the Mansfield Relays last Saturday.

Senior high has won easy victories over Ashland and Canton McKinley and should have little trouble with Newark. Coach Harry Mehock's lads knocked off the Wildcats last year, 74 to 44.

Marty Bricker is the only member of the present Bengal cast to take down a first place last year, although Burt Lindsay, George Russell, Paul Hammond and George Doyle took seconds. Bricker won both hurdle events.

Jimmy Bivins Battles Pat Valentino Tonight

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Jimmy Bivins will try to push himself up another notch on the way back to top ranking among the heavyweights when he tangles with Pat Valentino of San Francisco in a 10-rounder at the Arena tonight.

Steve Belloise, hard-hitting New York middleweight, tangles with Chuck Hunter of Cleveland in another feature 10-rounder.

Tribe Opens Flag Chase With Browns

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians today open their 28th annual drive for a second pennant against the St. Louis Browns—the "po' li'l boys" of the American league.

Tribe President "Barnum" Bill Veeck was slated to add his usual circus touch to the Cleveland baseball scene with a "babies' bullpen" for harried mothers and a gala flag-raising program as a send-off for Lou Boudreau in his seventh year as the Indian's manager. A crowd of 60,000 was anticipated.

Cleveland's long-suffering fans hoped none of the clowns in Veeck's circus would be in uniform as the Tribe battles for a 1948 feast to end the pennant famine reaching back to 1920.

NEW OUTFIELD

Boudreau swept all his 1947 outfield worries into one ashcan by nominating a completely revamped garden patrol for the opening game.

The trio which will carry much of the Indians' pennant penchant includes Left Fielder Allie Clark, obtained from the New York Yankees; Center Fielder Thurman Tucker, the ex-Chicago White Sox gardener who looks like Joe E. Brown, and Larry Doby, the speedy Negro youth who sparkled in spring training.

Boudreau's choice of Bob Feller as opening day pitcher was no surprise to Tribe followers, who have seen the ace fireballer turn in six superior inaugural stints, and round of the Carolina Open Toledo Mud Hen hurler, was slated to toil for the Browns.

'I Saw the Sack of Bogota!'

American Woman Tells Story of Uprising

Editor's Note—Bernice Goetz is a well-known amateur explorer and writer who has made Bogota her headquarters for the last several years. She has made numerous trips into the jungles of Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador and Colombia, alone—except native Indian guides.

By BERNICE GOETZ

BOGOTA, Colombia—I saw Bogota reduced to shambles!

I saw the slender man in a black suit who announced the assassination of Jorge Eliecer Gaitan as he ran from the Clinic shouting: "They have killed Gaitan with five shots! I am going to all parts of the pueblo to tell our comrades!"

Within a few minutes, office workers, laborers, street cleaners and all the people on the streets gathered together in groups and this proved the lull before the storm.

The mob consisted of the poorest classes, ungoverned people of the streets, the urchins who live by stealing . . . I was swept into their masses and the best thing was to stay with them until we reached the Plaza de Bolivar where stands the Cathedral and Capitolio.

I took pictures when they stormed the Capitolio steps. The cordon of police gave in, as they did everywhere in the city and the mob entered the salons where hung the crystal chandeliers, with brocaded chairs and mahogany tables for Conference delegates set in long rows on the newly made carpets.

Taxi-drivers who have been most wholeheartedly Gaitanistas and have aided each uprising in the past, joined in the tumult. Their faces distorted, they did not care what happened to their cars.

POLICE JOIN MOB

The police gave in, and many turned "Red." Women embraced them as they came walking down the streets smiling. They put bits of red on their helmets and blouses and held up their guns.

AFTERMATH OF RIOTING IN BOGOTA—Colombians look over the wrecked and burned downtown section of Bogota, Colombia, after rioting, burning and looting broke out when their Liberal party leader, Gaitan, was shot and killed. Roving mobs smashed at least 1,000 stores, set fire to 40 major buildings and ruined many of the city's largest churches.—(AP Wirephoto)

Women carried flags carelessly over their shoulders; boys who had stolen portraits of Bolivar from art stores held them on their backs. Stolen trucks carried drunken mobs. Then the wounded started coming in . . . hurt by their own kind out of drunken carelessness.

I saw five being carried past by comrades. In the middle of the street below my balcony, one such group had to wait while the wounded one died. A body lay below on the sidewalk. No one paid attention to it. A woman lay near, shot in the stomach.

Fires started everywhere. The fire consuming the archbishop's house threatened our entire block.

The huge Colegio de San Bartolemy on the hillside burned furiously all afternoon and into the next day. It was the biggest fire of all. A laboratory next to us was a hazard for it was filled with chemicals.

People started leaving with their bags, mattresses and bundles. I went out to see the ruins. I saw the streetcars burned on the tracks, a hotel a blackened ruin, apartment houses, belonging to well-known Conservative party members, completely gutted.

Buildings were still burning inside and walls collapsing. Septima looks like an atomic bomb struck it. Heavy iron curtains covering show windows were bent outward to permit entry. The great smoke clouds hung in the sky like the black banners of death.

The army brought order of a kind among a people who have no understanding of war regime or mob control. The order was given to get off the streets by 12 or 2 o'clock and not even to appear at the windows. The order was confusing even to the officials who gave it.

The next day I stood at the closed door of a grocery store begging for a few groceries which I had ordered previously. You had to stand out in the open and wait for your order while nervous boy soldiers who have been in the army a month, shot at anything. The ricochet of bullets was the most dangerous.

One woman carrying groceries across a cross-street was shot down. A boy who ran when he was ordered to stop, was killed. His brother ran to his side and was almost shot as he did so.

It was best to peek around corners, hold up your hands and walk slowly as you came out into the open. Bursts of rifle fire go on sporadically. The opposition is fighting from rooftops and two police garrisons held out.

As I write this I hear a sudden tumult and look out the window. The mob is back again and storming up the street!

Greek War Devastates Border Area

Villagers Fear Red Reprisals

By ROBERT HEWETT

KASTANIANI, Greece—(AP)—This battered village 400 yards from the Albanian border is a hot spot.

Kastaniani has been recaptured twice from the communist-led guerrillas in the painful fighting of the Greek civil war. But ask a Greek here about the "civil war" and he laughs bitterly.

"It's much more than a civil war between Greeks," said a wrinkled farmer. He pointed across the border and added: "This is a war by bandits supplied by our communist neighbors who want to take all Greece."

The label "cold war" for the east-west conflict over the spread of communism has an ironic ring for the few remaining villagers. Most of the original 500 inhabitants have gone—some as regufees to safer parts of Greece; many of the younger ones as voluntary or involuntary recruits for General Markos Vafiades' guerrilla battalions which Greek army leaders say are training in Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

The oldsters left are caught in a battleground where Soviet-backed guerrillas fight the American-supported Greek army.

TRUCKS BRING SUPPLIES

Almost every night they watch the lights of truck convoys down the valley in Albania. Observers for the United Nations special committee on the Balkans say the trucks are bringing up food and weapons to be packed by mules across the border by the guerrillas.

Guerrilla mortar shells and machinegun bullets harass the hilltop town at night.

No wonder "Mama" Papandopoulos is confused and afraid. That isn't the 47-year-old woman's real name. She's afraid to have her name or picture printed because she fears the communist "Andartes" will come back again. And if they do, they won't like it because she sheltered an American correspondent.

Mama is pretty much like the other 15 or 20 villagers remaining. Her husband, a baker, fled last summer to Athens with their 14-year-old daughter. One son is a radio operator with an army brigade fighting near Mount Murgana, only a few miles away. The other son was forced to join the guerrillas. He was taken to Albania with other young village boys and girls just before last Christmas.

Mama doesn't know or really care much about communism. All she knows is that the Andarties will come back if the Greek army leaves the village.

Just before last Christmas, the guerrillas took the mayor, the village priest and eight others and executed them, mama said. She doesn't want to be here if they come back.

Then came the question I have heard all over Greece, from peasant homes to government ministries:

"What shall I do? You Americans are our allies, tell us what to do."

Stretching Your Dollar

Selection of Right Stores Essential

NEW YORK—(AP)—Experts say one way you can fight the high cost of living is by shopping at the right stores.

These authorities say some stores usually sell goods at lower prices than others, while some merchants have lower prices only on certain items. They recommend "comparison shopping" to consumers who must watch expenditures carefully. On major items where a large amount of money is involved, they say you should explore four or five stores if possible.

According to one study by the Twentieth Century Fund, an independent organization which does research on economic questions, of every dollar spent at retail only 41 cents covers actual costs of manufacture.

The other 59 cents go for distribution. These are all the costs that pile up as the goods move from the factory to your home.

This study said distribution costs might be trimmed by eliminating these following services: Buying on credit or on time payments; shopping by telephone; shopping at stores which make frequent deliveries and readily take back goods consumers have ordered but do not want.

As an indication of how credit may add to costs, one large New York store claims it tries to keep its prices six per cent lower than its competitors just because it sells for cash. The Fund study asserted that a store which saves on bookkeeping and bill-collecting expenses and has no bad debts is in a position to lower its selling costs.

SERVICE CHARGE ADDED

The survey found that stores usually add a "service charge" to the price of goods sold on the installment plan. In the case of one big firm, this charge often equals 20 per cent more than the price for cash.

Fund researchers also found that a store's liberal delivery policy can be expensive. Where prices are the same whether the goods are delivered or not, the consumer who takes his purchases with him actually pays for the whim of another who may demand delivery of a trifle.

Returns on unwanted goods also were found to be costly. Often they involve two delivery expenses—from the store and back—without any profit. If the article is soiled or damaged it may have to be resold at a loss.

Department store files bulge with stories of persons like one woman who ordered a grand piano, expensive drapes and new clothes to impress her guests at a party. The next day all the merchandise went back to the store—to be paid for, indirectly, by the regular customers.

The Fund researchers urged consumers "to avoid the cost of credit and delivery." They said you can do this by trading with stores "which are strictly cash-and-carry, which charge extra for services, or which give the cash-and-carry customers a lower price."

Other retail experts agree that prices at cash-and-carry stores should be examined. But they warn that you may miss excellent opportunities if you fail to investigate stores which provide other conveniences.

BIG VOLUME HELPS

These authorities say: Many department stores can keep prices low because of the huge business they do. Through intelligent buying, they may make special purchases which they can pass on at a saving. Through efficient management, they may be able to cut costs in other ways so that their prices still are lower than those in "cash-and-carry" stores.

Retail spokesmen admit that customers abuse their right to return goods they find undesirable. But they say that by allowing returns the store is giving the customer an "insurance policy" that he will be satisfied with his purchase.

They point out that a consumer who has bought an unsatisfactory item in a store where "all sales are final" may find that instead of getting a bargain he has lost the entire purchase price.

Shopping authorities say you should carefully consider what prices in various stores mean in terms of goods and services. It is important to know exactly what you pay for.

One retail spokesman comments:

"In almost all cases you have to pay for what you get. If you want to save on money you will have to spend your time, searching for values, or doing some work, like serving yourself, for which other people are willing to pay."

Ashland Goes on Daylight Saving Time Sunday Midnight

Farm Bureau Protest Rejected

Council Refuses To Rescind Action

ASHLAND — Ashland goes on fast time Sunday midnight in accordance with what council feels is the majority wish of the Ashland residents.

Final action on the time change plan was taken Monday night, ending the long battle between the "fors" and the "againsts" among Ashland city and Ashland county residents.

After reviewing a fresh batch of petitions for and against daylight saving time during summer months, council president, David Lutz announced that council would abide by its original decision.

Farm Bureau representatives had put up a heated battle for rescinding of the fast time legislation adopted at an earlier meeting. They threatened to boycott Ashland business if the slow time is not adhered to in Ashland.

Of this action, councilmen agreed last night that the rural time battle was largely stirred up by the Farm Bureau and was not necessarily the will of the majority of Ashland county farmers.

MERCHANTS HEARD

William Stahl, chairman of the Ashland retail merchants group, told council that 99 out of 114 merchants approached had signed a petition asking council to "rescind the time legislation in sympathy with the farm feeling."

He did not present the petition, however, explaining that only 114 of some 250 merchants had been approached and that opening the petition to the public might result in unjust boycotting of the merchants who had no opportunity to express an opinion.

Petitions signed by 295 Ashland residents asked retention of the fast time legislation.

Rev. W. F. Koepplin, representing the Ashland ministerial association, stated the fast time would do a disservice to the summer union church services at the city park where religious movies are shown since they cannot be shown before dark.

ADJUST TO CHANGE

He added, however, that the churches could adjust themselves to the fast time without too much difficulty.

Councilman Lutz reported a personal survey among farm friends which indicated that the time change was of little concern to those he approached.

Stahl told council the merchants wanted to go on record as making an effort to please farm customers but that the retail board would stand by any action of council and would accept any financial loss sustained through any boycotting.

While adhering to its original action in putting Ashland on fast time from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September, council went on record as desiring to submit to the voters next fall a question concerning the voters' desires on the summer time change for 1949.

2 Richland Men Granted Paroles

Two men sentenced from Richland county were among 108 inmates of the Mansfield reformatory granted paroles today by the State Pardon and Parole commission. Fourteen re-paroles also were granted.

Given paroles were Donald Swert, serving a term for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, and William Parsons jr., sentenced for embezzlement.

Both were sentenced to terms of one to 20 years on May 21, 1947. The paroles are effective May 20.

Substitute For Buyers Appointed

The board of education last night approved an appointment and a salary adjustment.

Due to the illness of Calvin A. Byers, Senior high school teacher and News-Journal columnist, Mrs. Marjorie Sheriff was appointed a permanent substitute for the remainder of the school year.

Mrs. Hazel MacArthur, Carpenter school, was granted a salary adjustment for six credits of work completed last summer.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Railroad stocks led the market irregularly higher today.

Although a number of industrials joined the extension of Monday's late upswing, the list was dotted with a good scattering of minus signs. Early dealings maintained a lively pace, with some large blocks changing hands. Near midday narrow advances were somewhat in the majority.

Shelby Sells $400,000 In Light Bonds

15-Year Issue to Pay 2.246% Interest

SHELBY—One of the most favorable bids ever offered for an Ohio revenue bond issue was accepted by city council last night from Braun, Bosworth and company of Toledo and Field, Richards and company of Cleveland, bonding houses, for the $400,000 bonds to be issued to pay for the new turbine-generator and condenser to be installed in the Municipal Light company here.

The bonds were purchased at an annual average debt requirement of $31,600 at 2.246 interest over a 15-year period. The issue is callable in five years if the city wishes to pay off the debt sooner.

The issue is to be paid for out of the revenue of the company.

The representatives of the eight bonding houses present at the meeting spoke highly of the financial condition of the municipal light company. J. P. Adkins, general manager of the public utilities, has headed the management of the firm for the past 11 years.

CLERICAL HELP REFUSED

The council turned down the request of Law Director William Depler for clerical help in his office.

The matter was tabled until the salary of the law director could be changed by law on Oct. 1, 1949, under the city charter. Depler had asked for clerical help to relieve his own office of extra expense incurred in doing the city's business.

The council by a resolution authorized Mayor W. R. Morris to take an option on the Harry Crawford property adjoining the Municipal Light plant.

The property is for sale for $9,800 and the city could use the two buildings for storage. Action will be taken on the option when city council meets May 3.

A resolution was also passed to call $25,000 mortgage revenue bonds on the light plant.

The transfer of $500 from the general fund to the park fund was voted.

Dr. E. J. Schad, ward councilman, was absent.

The workers were asked to check their Social Security cards with their employer's records by showing their cards to the employer or to the person in charge of pay rolls.

Women who marry are asked to get a new Social Security card showing their married name. No change will be made in the account number since the same card is used throughout the worker's lifetime regardless of residence.

Cult Brings Disorder In South Seas

Movement Comes As War Aftermath

SYDNEY, Australia —(AP)— All over the South Seas the "Magic Cargo" cult is breaking out on isolated islands, according to travelers reaching here.

The religious-political movement is a symptom of unrest among natives. But each outbreak is spontaneous in its own local territory. There is no widespread movement of revolt as far as administrations can determine.

Outbreaks have been reported in New Guinea, Manus, Bougainville, and in the Solomons.

In the Solomons, five native leaders of the "marching rule" movement, a quasi fascist organization, are imprisoned as a result of a rebellion which failed last September.

The "Magic Cargo" cult differs only slightly in different areas. Its adherents believe a great ship will come over the horizon, laden with all the good things they want. Many of the good things they saw for the first time when the American troops inhabited the islands.

OFFICIALS CONCERNED

Some say it will be a huge submarine that will bring the manna from heaven. In inland New Guinea the natives talk of a great tunnel which will open up, through which the goods will flow.

Minister for External Territories Edward Ward said the cargo cult has given his officials some concern, but that he had no recent reports of serious outbreaks in Australian mandated territory.

Periodically New Guineans work themselves into a semi-religious frenzy called "Malala madness." While they tell and retell the story of the monster ship coming, they build a big house to hold the cargo. Then they dig holes all around the village "for the dead people to come up and get their share."

LEADERS ARRESTED

Six months ago the "Marching Rule" movement in the Solomons became so strong and rebellious that the administrators sent in a police force to arrest the ringleaders. H. M. S Contest was ordered there to show the flag.

An official who saw the movement grow to full fury on Malatia in the Solomons said it was "due to the impact of war on a stone age community."

The Malaitans worked in labor corps for the United States army during the war. They saw colored men getting high wages, and enjoying rides in jeeps, smoking and listening to radios.

"They got ideas," said this official.

War left plantations overgrown There was no work. They went back to their villages where the women do the work. They listened to native leaders who had "got religion."

GREW GRADUALLY

Gradually the movement was formed, based on interpretations of the Book of Revelations. Everybody joining had to pay one pound. All would share in the magic cargo. Because there are 15 different languages spoken on Malaita, the gospel was preached in pidgin English

One of the native missionaries named Nori became a leader. A British official said Nori told him "I got ideas from heaven."

"The marching rule" or "marching brotherhood" as it also is called, formed its own militia. They were armed with batons and preached insurrection and war against the white man, British officials said.

The cult established communal farms. They forced natives to join the cult and put them to work on the farms. Gradually they took over the British-established native courts which administer the minor laws.

When the native colonial "headmen" completely lost control, the British administration sent in police from western Solomons with fixed bayonets and arrested five ringleaders.

Later, a British destroyer and a submarine encircled the island and nearby Guadalcanal and Christoval where there had been similar outbreaks.

Now all is peaceful once more among the 44,000 Malaitans. But the "marching rule" is outlawed

Walter Lippmann Speaks

GOP Holds Chance to End Uncertainty

For those who believe that the paramount issue in the election is how to change horses in mid-stream without falling into the river the Nebraska and Wisconsin primaries are encouraging. They show that there are no longer, as there were in 1940 and 1944, irreconcilable differences between the Republicans who live in the inland states and those who live on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards

The MacArthur campaign clearly and the Taft campaign in considerable measure, were a good test of whether the division persists.

It is now certain that the Old Guard Republican machine no longer has a popular majority among Republicans in any section of the country.

The main mass of the party consists of Republicans who are for Stassen, Dewey, or Vandenberg. Among them are no deep differences For the rivalry between Stassen and Dewey is personal, and does not sharply divide their followers in Vandenberg the Republicans have a man who is not only acceptable to all the elements of the new majority but also to all but the frantic fringe of the Old Guard.

Therefore, unless the Old Guard politicians choose to defy the will of the mass of the Republicans, a combination worked out by Stassen, Dewey, and Vandenberg, and one may hope with Taft, can unite the party effectively and be as certain, as it is possible to be in politics, of taking over the administration of the government.

COMBINATION POSSIBLE

A combination of this sort made in June would come very near to making the election campaign a formality The country and the world would know in June who were to be the President, the Vice-President and perhaps also the Secretary of State.

All would have been done that it is possible to do under our system of government to remove the uncertainty of a bitterly contested election, and the general paralysis of authority which exists in that dangerous interval when one administration is defeated but still in office and the new administration is not yet formed.

The nomination of a Vandenberg-Stassen or a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket in June would assure as much continuity and would create as much confidence as are possible in a year when a change of administration is as necessary as it is unavoidable

Such a solution of the Republican problem would at the same time open the way to a solution of the problem of the Democrats.

This is how to become an effective opposition, and not to be, like the Republicans in 1932 and 1936, so disunited and so feeble that they can provide no check and restraint upon the party in power.

This is the conclusive reason why Democratic leaders, who feel responsibility for the party, are compelled to find a way of inducing Mr. Truman to step down. If the main consideration were winning the election, the Democratic leaders could say that Mr. Truman might as well be defeated as any one else

LACK VICTORY HOPE

But the Democrats cannot be serious about winning this election. Their concern is to survive as an opposition by electing congressmen and senators and governors and mayors and local officials.

There can be little doubt that a national ticket headed by Mr. Truman would be a severe handicap and perhaps even disastrous For Mr Truman, unhappily for him and for his party, not only divides the Democrats, he disintegrates them.

A Vandenberg-Stassen or a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket would put an end to the idea that the Democratic party can be reunited and maintained in power by drafting General Eisenhower.

There would be no reason for drafting him, as there might be if the Republicans nominated General MacArthur or Mr Martin, or even Senator Taft

And there would be no excuse for sacrificing him, as inevitably he would be sacrificed, if he undertook the impossible task of gluing together the Democratic factions that Mr. Truman and Mr. Wallace have jointly and severally torn asunder.

Recognizing the fact that after sixteen years in office, it is time to retire, the Democrats could then nominate, not a candidate for President, but a caretaker for the party.

The issues which now divide the Democrats would not be settled. They cannot be settled. They can only be allowed to subside, once the cause is removed which has aggravated them.

That cause is the feeling in the country that the men closest to President Truman have not been politically disinterested in dealing with the explosive questions of our age—with sectionalism, racialism, nationalism, with the Red menace and the Red scare, and the issues of liberty and of war and peace.

All these questions are objectively difficult and dangerous But our problems are aggravated by the subjective anxiety, hysteria, and moral disorientation which now pervade our efforts to deal with them

These nervous disorders are in themselves as dangerous as the problems which excite them. They stem—so it seems to me—from a loss of confidence in the authority, the example, and the competence of the inner circle of the Truman administration

Hog Raisers Get Warning

CHICAGO —(INS)— The United States Department of Agriculture has asked that all hog producers contact their selling agencies before sending more hogs to market.

The request was made in view of the huge run of around 100,000 hogs Monday at major markets which could not be absorbed by current buyers.

The big shipments were made because farmers apparently thought the big packers would resume operations.

The USDA said that "to prevent future market gluts and a further depression of prices" farmers should make sure their hogs can be sold before shipping.

It Takes Ore to Make the Steel You Use

and PROFITS to keep mines running

It takes vast amounts of expensive equipment and machinery to keep iron ore moving smoothly to the blast furnaces.

It also takes a lot of money.

It is a man-sized job for the profit dollar.

But the profit dollar doesn't have the strength it used to have.

For the cost of new mining machinery, replacement and maintenance has gone up. And as those costs have gone up, the purchasing power of the profit dollar has dropped.

For example, today's profit dollar buys only 58 cents' worth of electric ore shovel compared with 1938.

Steel profits averaged 6.3 cents on the sales dollar last year.

Steel profits last year averaged 9.4 cents per dollar of investment.

Steel profits are too low when measured against the cost of continuing efficiency.

Communists Losing In Italy's Count

WHILE returns from the Italian elections are still incomplete, confident belief is expressed that completion of the count of votes will show anti-communist sentiment in Italy sufficiently strong to retain control of the government—unless Russia-inspired military force is exerted in an effort to defeat majority preference.

The exceedingly high percentage of eligible voters who went to the polls evidenced deep concern over the outcome, as it was a small vote on which communist agitators had depended for making a better showing than is indicated thus far.

Italians aligned against communism are represented by the Christian Democratic party, within which stand the forces that would keep Italy a sovereign state within the western community of nations, as opposed to elements which would establish a totalitarian government, ruled by terrorism and under complete dominance of the Soviet Union.

It is noteworthy that the communists have never yet won a clear-cut victory in a free election, their appearance of success having always been attained under the shadow of the Red army. In Italy reliance of communists was placed on a powerful fifth column, well financed by Moscow and using the devices of threats, wild promises and trickery, which apparently have resulted in deserved failure.

Much Interest In Ohio Primaries

WITH the Ohio primaries coming along two weeks from today, enlivened political interest is being noted over the state and there is likelihood of above-average turnout of voters on May 4.

Party candidates are to be nominated for county, district and state offices, in addition to expression of Republican presidential preference in some districts in which Harold Stassen is contesting with Senator Taft for 23 of the state's 53 delegates to the national convention to be held in Philadelphia the latter part of June.

Commenting on primary results thus far, the Cincinnati Times-Star says: "Midway between Dewey's New Hampshire and the two states carried by Stassen (Wisconsin and Nebraska), stands Ohio, by geographical position and long-time political history perhaps the representative American state. Whoever is nominated by the Republicans at Philadelphia in June, their campaign will be based on the record which their party has made in Congress under the leadership of the Ohio candidate—a fact to which Republicans whose votes twice sent him to Washington will naturally give due weight."

The Times-Star also notes that Ohio casts 25 electoral votes while the total for New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Nebraska is only 22, adding that, "Under the circumstances, the Ohio primary could make history."

Cheer Up, Baseball Time Is Here

YESTERDAY was a day to soothe minds of men made tired by talk of strikes and war and politics and fifth columns. It was a day on which millions of Americans turned attention to their favorite summer sport. For, on Monday, April 19, the major league baseball season opened—and with four games instead of the usual one.

President Truman threw the traditional first ball at the game between the Yankees and the Senators in Washington and all over the country baseball enthusiasts began throwing comments, predictions, and—of course—a few remarks at the umpire.

As every sports fan knows, one of the two other opening games was played in Cincinnati while two (morning and afternoon games in observance of Patriot's day) were played in Boston.

While the major league games will hold the focus of attention, the corner-lot and city-park games will be providing wholesome recreation in every town and hamlet of the United States from now until fall.

Any potential enemies of the U. S. who had hoped that, as a result of the cold war, Americans would be reduced to a mass of jittery nerves, must indeed be disheartened to see the nation turning happily to its most popular warm weather sport.

Sales Tax On Medicines Opposed

OBJECTION to application of the Ohio sales tax to medicines is being voiced by Ray T. Miller, of Cleveland, aspirant for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and while it is common practice for candidates seeking nomination or election to pick popular issues to talk about, this is one that deserves more attention than it has thus far been given.

With millions of dollars of surplus funds in the state treasury, it seems absurd to levy a sales tax on medicines required for the sick. The tax was taken off food on the ground that it placed too great a burden on the poor—and then it was taken off candy on the reasoning that candy is a food, which is OK—except that it seems odd to buy a box of tax-free candy at a drug store and then have to pay sales tax on medicines purchased.

This has been objected to, in a quiet sort of way, for a long time, but nothing has been done about it—and it is rather interesting to have the subject brought into the open for more widespread discussion . . . and possibly future legislative action

Story of a Man Who Didn't Give Up

"WHEN poor humans are struck by an affliction like mine, the first thing they want to do is to blow their brains out. I felt that way, too, at first, but life is jut as precious to me now as in the days when we rushed off the field victors for old Yale."

So said the late Perry Hale of Portland, Conn., when in a single year he lost his wife, his savings and his home, and then was blinded in an explosion. Yet he did not give up. He developed an insurance business, and invented a monoplane kite that gave him a good living.

Hale's Yale days made him famous. "Plunging Perry," who had previously played center on the football team, broke away from the old tradition that a fullback must do the kicking and became the first of a new type of line-breaking fullbacks, perhaps the greatest of his kind. At least his opponents thought so.

Some will be interested—but not much—in learning that "mice will eat peanut butter as readily as 80-cent bacon"—which is nice to know while the price of cheese is so high.

See Danger In Ball Bill

By THOMAS L. STOKES

ANOTHER chiseling operation to weaken a basic social welfare law, so familiar in this 80th Congress, is under way.

Like others, this "revision" is offered under the cloak of sweet charity.

The basic law affected is what has come to be known as the Wage-Hour Act prescribing minimum wages and maximum hours for industries operating in interstate commerce.

It was enacted by Congress in 1938 after long and bitter resistance from a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats.

It was, in fact, the last social reform that the Roosevelt administration was able to get through Congress because of the gradually increasing power of that coalition which has stymied President Truman likewise and is operating more effectively than ever today.

The attack on this law comes in a bill by Senator Joseph H. Ball (R-Minn) while it provides for an increase of the minimum wage—the sugar-coating in this case—it also makes many legal and technical changes in the present law that will remove an estimated two to three million workers now covered by the law from its protection, as well as weakening safeguards for other workers in the way of over-time and in other respects.

The 50-page bill is a lawyer's document, full of all sorts of legal mumbo-jumbo, which is incomprehensible to the average worker but, when analyzed by experts in this field, reveals the purpose of its industrial backers to weaken this basic statute which has improved wages and working conditions of several million workers outside of unions and in the white-collar category.

Labor, consumer organizations, church groups, women's organizations and others are joining in the fight against the Ball Bill which is the subject of hearings by the Senate labor and public welfare committee beginning this week.

They are urging instead enactment of a bill sponsored by two Democrats, Senator Elbert D. Thomas (Utah) and Rep. John W. McCormack (Mass.), also before the committee. That measure not only would raise the minimum from the present 40 cents an hour to 75 cents, as urged by President Truman, but also would expand coverage to many workers not now included

* * *

Chance for Exploitation.

THE DANGER in the Ball Bill is that it is sponsored by a Republican, and an influential one, in a Republican Congress. The strategy behind it is that, because of the increase in the minimum wage provided, it might be difficult for President Truman to veto it and thus there might be a chance of getting over the provisions weakening the law.

The Ball Bill would raise the minimum to 60 cents an hour, which would become effective upon enactment of the law. But there is a trick here. The minimum could be lowered to 50 cents an hour or raised to 70 cents, or anywhere in between upon recommendation by industry committees set up by the bill if the wage-hour administrator approved a change after a public hearing.

Industry, labor and the public would be represented on these committees. A third of the committee could initiate proposals for a change. While the rate could be lowered to 50 cents an hour, raising it to 70 cents would be more difficult because of other conditions in the complex measure.

In certain other provisions the bill would open the way for some inequities, though on a smaller scale, that were responsible for original enactment of the wage-hour act. One of these was the regional wage differential upon which the South, in particular, insisted. The claim for lower wages in certain areas was based on alleged cheaper living conditions and the like which by and large are generally discounted now.

The Ball Bill would permit the industry committees to fix different rates for different geographical areas, thus reviving this now discarded formula.

Reputable manufacturers long ago abandoned it. But there is a minority that certainly would try to exploit it.

There are other devices in the measure which remove present protections for the worker, among them, broader exemptions than under the present law for retail stores and service establishments, both as to minimum pay and overtime, as well as for persons employed in food-packing and canning plants.

Courage Can Be Acquired

By ELSIE ROBINSON

COURAGE—what cockeyed notions we have about it! We think of courage as a flame which fires our cowardly flesh to heroic deeds. What a buoyant thing to be a hero! How heroes must thrill and tingle!

Or we think of courage as constant quality which some people have, some haven't. You're brave or you're not; just as you're short or tall, blond or brunette.

Of course, you'd prefer to be brave. It must be wonderful to face life without flinching—to be always sure of oneself. How lucky to be made like that! But if you aren't, you aren't, that's all.

So we cheat and drool—and run away at the first bogieman merely because our ideas of courage are all muddled. Whereas, if we were taught the truth we might all be brave.

FOR COURAGE IS SOMETHING ANYONE CAN ACQUIRE.

Courage isn't a flame which seizes us and sweeps us on to superhuman feats. Nor is courage a birth gift.

No one is "born brave." We are all born cowards—and must fight fear all our lives.

AND THE FIGHT IS USUALLY TOUGHEST AT THAT VERY MOMENT WHEN WE SEEM MOST HEROIC.

* * *

HEROES do not thrill and tingle. They ache and shiver. They want to cry.

In short, in the face of unpleasantness, discomfort and danger a brave man feels exactly as a timid man feels. He has exactly the same reluctance to go ahead, the same miserable sense of insecurity and the same identical knots in his rebellious insides.

Then why are some men heroes and some cowards?

BECAUSE SOME MEN CHOOSE TO BE HEROES AND SOME CHOOSE TO BE COWARDS.

Courage isn't an emotional seizure. Nor is it an inheritance.

Courage is a deliberate attitude—a civilized habit.

* * *

THE brave man is as much afraid as the timid man, and he knows it. But he won't surrender to that fear. He won't let it rule him.

He has been taught, and he has taught himself, that yielding to fear is abominable. He has watched the kind of men who do yield to fear—who let fear rule them.

So the brave man determines to be brave. Chances are he never really feels brave. He is never buoyed up by courage. He is frightened all his life. But he goes ahead and makes the gestures.

Anyone can be brave.

Any child can be taught to be brave.

We can choose to be brave exactly as we choose to be honest, tidy, prompt and polite.

That is the truth about courage. It is a very simple truth and it lacks the sensationalism of the heroic hooey with which we stuff our silly minds. And because it's plain and practical most of us will prefer the hooey. That's a pity. For it's a dreary thing to stay a coward when you might, by doing the daily dozen, go up and over the top.

Air Force Controversy Becomes Heated

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Apropos the current row between the Air Forces and the Army-Navy, it is interesting to recall that in 1940 the Army asked Congress for only six Flying Fortresses. This was one year after war broke in Europe, yet the Army still didn't see the need of planes.

And had it not been for Congressman Ross Collins of Mississippi who demanded more planes, the Army would have been worse prepared than it was.

Today, President Truman—ex-artilleryman—is siding with Secretary Forrestal's Navy and ground forces, while Congress—as in 1940—is siding with the Air Forces.

Backstage battling between Forrestal and Air Secretary Symington has been even more vitriolic than most people realize. Here is part of the repartee during a locked-door session of the Senate armed services committee between the air secretary and the man who is supposed to be his boss:

Symington — "Supposing you take this figure of $15,000,000,000 more if the three services get everything they want. That is the figure that went around. It would not be $15,000,000,000, it would be lot more with the mobilization plan."

Forrestal—"We do not accept that."

Symington — "The Army does. They are talking mobilization. We are not. We are talking peacetime Air Force in the being."

Forrestal—"They are talking a little bit higher than they need talk."

Symington—"The Air Force for three years has said it needed the 70-group program in peacetime and it has never deviated because of the strategic aspect of the 70 groups. We asked this year what we asked for in 1947 and 1948."

Forrestal—"You have to exercise some judgment between extremes. There is a middle ground for judgment which, as I say, I have to rely on the joint chiefs of staff to furnish me with, and they are going to have a very hard wrestling match to do it."

* * *

Total Air Strength.

IN ADDITION to the 70 regular groups, the Air Force is asking for 27 groups for Air National Guard, 34 groups for Air Reserve, 22 squadrons for such activities as reconnaissance, air weather and air communications. The increase from 55 to 70 groups will mean a corresponding increase from 364,000 to 453,000 men by the end of 1949.

If the 70-group program is approved, the Air Force plans on adding 1,512 airplanes in fiscal year 1949. The big increase would be in bomber strength. Under the 55-group program, the Air Force would be limited to 480 bombers; under the 70-group program, this would be increased to 720 bombers.

"That is roughly a 50 per cent increase in our striking force," Gen. "Touhy" Spaatz told the senators.

"The plane we would like to continue to build," added Symington, "is a modification of the B-29."

He pointed out that the first B-29 had a bomb load of 2,000 pounds, whereas the present bomb load is 10,000 pounds. The original range was 3,938 miles, the present range is 4,100 miles and the expected range is 6,945 miles. However, the B-29 already has been flown more than 5,000 statute miles with 10,000 pounds of bombs, Symington disclosed.

Rumanian Wire-Puller.

IN a spacious house on Long Island, United Nations delegates are entertained by a mysterious Rumanian named Vespasien Palla. Dr. Palla came to the United States on the Queen Elizabeth with his own car and chauffeur, now boasts two footmen.

How he does it with Rumanian currency under strict control is a mystery. Nevertheless, U. N. delegates are never without champagne and shashlik when they visit Palla's home.

Previously Dr. Palla was Rumanian minister to Switzerland for the fascist Antonescu government which declared war on the U. S. A.

It was this same Antonescu government which slaughtered 300,000 Jews, sent many of their bodies to the I. G. Farben Soap Factories.

However, Palla now serves the communist government of Rumania, is reported to be close to Anna Pauker, Red boss of Rumania.

Despite this background, Palla obtained a visa to visit the U. S. A., and believe it or not, is consulted by state department officials on legal problems. Furthermore, he is the man believed to have engineered the sudden U. S. shift of policy regarding genocide—the massacre of human beings because of race, religion or culture.

The world has seen some ghastly massacres even in modern times, among them the Turkish massacre of the Armenians and Hitler's slaughter of the Jews. Now the United Nations proposes making future mass destruction an international crime.

But suddenly the United States switched its position. Instead of backing a genocide convention with teeth, last week U. S. Delegate John Maktos received new instructions — namely to confine the crime of genocide to governments. This would make the treaty unenforceable, since any government can claim that rioters who massacred Jews, Armenians or Moslems were irresponsible criminals uncontrolled by governments.

This sudden switch hasn't received the publicity given to our switch on Palestine, but it's just as fundamental, and even more mysterious.

If Congress investigated, it might find some interesting backstage factors behind the operations of Rumania's Dr. Vespasien Palla.

U. S. Cities and A-Bomb.

HEALTHY development in the Army — officers have been instructed to get acquainted with the U. S. A. Atomic-bombing makes it essential.

To this end, officers training for "M-Day" have been ordered to study Robert S. Allen's "Our Fair City." A spokesman for the defense department's advisory committee on community relations says:

"In the last war there were sporadic salvage drives for tin cans, scrap rubber, copper and other scarce materials. That was kid stuff compared to what will face us in the future. The military ought to know the blunt facts about city administration and political rule and what to do if all hell breaks loose.

"'Our Fair City' is the perfect reference volume because it pulls no punches. It was written by working newspapermen who analyzed and dissected their home towns with the kind of candor that military men should see.

"We now are in contact with people in 500 communities. They are civil leaders who operate behind the scenes. They have to receive as much information from us as we receive from them.

"For example, we will have to let the people know more about the role of the National Security Resources Board. The board favors decentralization of U. S. industry, for national safety in time of emergency. We have to show why. We have to explain what raw materials are in short supply and what allocations will be necessary to maintain a war economy, if there is to be one."

Sound advice if carried out.

Assignment: America

'Intelligence' Vindicated

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—Bit by bit, the facts behind that bloody business at Bogota are coming to light—and making it look more and more like a diplomatic version of the military blunder in the Battle of the Bulge.

In both cases, the trouble obviously hinged on Intelligence, Army G-2 in the Belgian breakthrough and the newly-formed Central Intelligence Agency in the Columbian uprising.

Because of that obvious, first-glance deduction, the tendency in both cases was to blame those two intelligence-gathering outfits—until it became obvious that neither was particularly at fault.

Eventually, it became clear that the trouble lay in, (1) The transmission of that intelligence (2) The relaying of it to responsible leaders and (3) Correct interpretation and prompt action, once such information reached the highest echelons.

Those who remember Von Runstedt's murderous breakthrough that cold night in December will recall the mounting rage from all sides at what seemed at first to be horribly inadequate G-2 reports on German strength.

"Why didn't we know those crack panzer and S.S. divisions had been moved in there?"

"Why didn't our observers spot all that movement—all that concentration of wehrmacht personnel across the line?"

"Why . . . why . . . why?"

The questions were machine-gunned out again and again—and G-2 units from battalion up to Army group took a terrific beating.

It was many months before even the basic facts in the case came to light, and part of the story is not yet fully clear today. But certainly the G-2 officers and men of the units locked in combat have been cleared . . . because we had the necessary information.

* * *

Delayed Transmission.

FOR YEARS to come, there probably will be arguments as to whether the fault lay in delayed transmission of that intelligence, or in failure to evaluate it accurately and act upon it promptly once it was collected at either First Army of Twelfth Army group headquarters. Already there are two bitter schools of thought on that point.

But the fact remains that Army records show the front-line infantry and artillery observers, as well as patrol and espionage experts, had reported accurately and fully on the German troop concentrations.

Had the weather permitted the operation of the reconnaissance planes from the higher echelons farther back, those combat line intelligence reports probably would have been eagerly awaited and seized upon as soon as they reached each way-station in their trip up through the chain of command.

Since the weather did not permit, the first news the corps, army and army group headquarters had of the concentrations had to come from the front-line men—and the trip "through channels" can be a slow one when it is not sped by demands from superiors.

So the reports made their slow journey—battalion to regiment to division to corps to army to army group—and, as yet, there is no real proof that they got adequate top-level consideration when they finally arrived.

* * *

Delayed by Red-Tape.

THUS it was at Bogota. Despite its youth as an organization, the Central Intelligence Agency now has been fully vindicated.

Its operatives on the spot provided accurate information on the planned communist coup, aimed at lowering U.S. and Western Hemisphere prestige around the world. Coming on the eve of the Italian elections, it would have been a deadly stroke, had it worked.

The fact that it did not work, and that the parley continued, was due (again paralleling the Bulge) to the improvisations of the men on the spot—not to any previously prepared plan.

Here again, transmission of that information, gathered at the risk of countless men's lives, was forced to go through ancient and slow-moving channels, subject to the whims of many a petty career diplomat along the line.

Apparently no one from the C.I.A. had been placed high enough to get a respectful audience from our diplomats—from Secretary of State Marshall on down. Hence, there was no full evaluation of the intelligence, and no prompt action taken as a result.

After the Bulge blunder, military intelligence transmission and evaluation methods got a fast revision to prevent a repetition. The war ended before the results of that revision could become clear.

But this diplomatic and international intelligence war is just getting started.

Why They Call It "Petrol".

Why gasoline is called petrol in the British Isles and most of Europe puzzles many people. A cabled brief about the death in England of Charles Hare Leonard, 87, is explanatory.

He was first in England to extract from petroleum the liquid which accounts for the existence of this "motor age." Fifty-six years ago, when he was 31, the question of a name came up at a party. "Call it petrol," he said.

The name caught on and has clung ever since. The British probably are more set in their ways than any people. But, in this case, we cling as tenaciously to the American name although the stuff isn't a gas or, except as to a small part of the whole supply, derived from a gas. Since it suggests a liquid made from petroleum, "petrol" seems to be the most logical name.—Detroit News.

Stassen Lures Big City Vote In Ohio Campaign

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Harold E. Stassen shifted from strawhat to big city vote appeal today in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination. For Sen. Robert A. Taft, on the defensive on his home grounds, the fight was dangerous and undesired.

The former Minnesota governor will begin a fast four-day campaign tour of Ohio tomorrow by plane from Dayton. Taft also will be on the delegate trail for three days starting tomorrow at Ashtabula.

Stassen, primary champion by virtue of his farm support in Wisconsin and Nebraska elections, is appealing from a radically different group of Ohio voters. He seeks to win 23 delegates from Ohio industrial areas at the May 4 primary.

The Minnesotan has hit Taft at the point of his greatest strength or possibly fatal weakness. The silent issue in the Ohio fight is labor's avowed hatred of Taft for his authorship of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

WOOS LABOR VOTE

Neither candidate has openly concentrated on this issue. But if Stassen keeps his presidential band-wagon gaining speed with a win in Ohio, a portion of the credit of a Taft defeat would go to the labor vote.

Taft indirectly recognized this point when he berated Stassen for claims to liberalism. The senator, Ohio's regular GOP favorite son candidate, said Stassen did not stand for more freedom for the common man.

The stakes in the Ohio contest are high. Stassen stood only to gain when he entered the primary early this year. Now with victories in Wisconsin and Nebraska, a complete loss in Ohio would do much to deflate his compaign.

Taft's national prestige could be damaged beyond repair if he lost more than a handful of delegates. It would put a boom behind talk that Taft could not win if nominated in Philadelphia in June.

MRS. SPANDAU SPEAKS BEFORE GARDEN CLUB

Guest Speaker Describes Birds and Their Habits; Member Discusses Varieties of Dogwood Trees.

LUNCHEON was served at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon to 20 members of the Royal Regal Garden club and their guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. H. M. Spandau, a member of the Audubon club. Mrs. Claude Phipps was hostess in her home at 143 Hedges street and the associate hostess was Mrs Dane Valentine.

"Birds" was the title of Mrs. Spandau's talk. She told of the general habits of various birds, emphasizing the martin and the humming bird. She described the different manners of eating and informed the club that birds usually eat half their weight every day.

"When a light eater is accused of 'eating like a bird'," she said, "the facts are rather misrepresented. If one ate like a bird, he would consume an average of 75 pounds of food a day."

Mrs. Spandau told her audience that the male bird ordinarily migrates north about two weeks ahead of the female and he establishes a "yard" which is his home. He protects this against all intruders until his mate arrives.

The courtship of birds is similar to human courtship, Mrs. Spandau said. Birds are not promiscuous but are very selective in their choice of mates. The male flirts with his plumage and shows off.

Mrs. Spanhau explained that she had become interested in birds and bird lore when she was a child of 10. A neighbor boy of 13, Louis Fuertes, who later became a well-known bird specialist, used to accompany her on "bird walks" while they studied birds and their habits.

Mrs. George Gettz, a member of the club, spoke on "The Dogwood Tree." She said that there are 17 varieties of this tree between the East and West coasts. The different species have four, five or six petals. Though the dogwood tree as we know it is a low flat tree, sometimes growing as high as 100 feet along the West coast.

After the program the club members exchanged garden and house plants.

Mrs Wilmer Gross, 93 Dawson avenue, will entertain the club May 17 with a 1 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. F H. Leavitt will serve as associate hostess.

New Elegance Seen In Home Decoration

While the "New Look" in apparel has rolled across the country with such magnetic force that its tag-line became a part of the language, the field of home decoration is making its bid for a share of Mrs. Housewife's attention in the form of "New Elegance" for the home. While prices continue high, home furnishings again can be considered investments, for this "New Elegance" was clearly evident in the recent spring showings of materials of finer and choicer quality; in more resplendent finishes and textures; in color inspiration; in more thorough and diligent craftsmanship or its effective simulation; in more attention to the engineering of function and practical utility; in better constructions.

And all of this "New Elegance" has been designed for today's living. Manufacturers have taken into consideration the problems faced by the young home-maker or person who is forced by housing conditions to furnish a small home, but who hopes later to have a more commodious home, and have come up with a wonderful solution: flexible furniture.

Now you can get a good deal of functional, as well as dual and multiple-use pieces which can be joined in a variety of combinations and adjusted to serve the small home need or to later expanded living, according to the editors of Retailing Home Furnishings.

Fashion in home furnishings circles this year is moving principally around Modern, Eighteenth Century and French Provincial.

The spotlight, of course, is focused on Modern, and although it is in Modern furniture that most of the double-duty pieces is found, beauty has not been sacrificed for functionalism. For 1948, the new Modern furniture lines radiate these influences: The increased use of sectional patterns which extend even into occasional furniture; here pieces are built to fit together in arrangements of twos, threes and fours that literally turn corners and follow your walls.

For the bedroom, there are two-piece dressers; chests and dressers with interchangeable parts; bed-height night tables which can be used in pairs to form dressing tables or desks. For the dining room, there are many chests with "super structures;" these could be used either on top or alongside the chests. For the living room, there are sectional sofas and love seats composed of individual chairs which could be used separately. In occasional furniture, practically all the newly-made pieces serve a dual purpose, with such combinations as a radio cabinet and end tables; a cellarette lamp table; the all-occasion chest, equally at home in dining room, living room, bedroom or hall.

New Rain Wear Highly Styled

By DOROTHY ROE

It's easy to sing in the rain these days, with the gay new raincoats that are brightening up the shops. The old idea of a drab rubberized garment to shed the rain is now passe. Rainwear is as highly styled as evening wear.

You may choose raincoats for every occasion, to cover a party dress or wear on a country hike. The dressier versions are likely to be in changeable taffeta or sleek satin, chemically treated to shed water.

For more casual wear there are handsome corduroys and gabardines—and even bright plaid ginghams, given new versatility by the magic of chemistry.

(And it's the little things about them that you find fascinating!)

Ida Lupino designs her own furniture in her spare time. One of her latest concoctions is a day bed that looks like a roller coaster. She reclines with tootsies in the air, hips down, shoulders up, and a head rest that can be set at any angle . . . Paul Hartman, who often pretends to be moronic for onstage laughs, spend hours a week reading the most solemn philosophers. His den is filled with volumes by Stendhal, Sorokin, Plato, Jung and Laird, and under a nom de plume he has written and published his own philosophical treatises — tomes that are said to have even the experts scratching their heads . . . Betty Grable always has the chorus girls over for Saturday night poker sessions when Harry James plays week-end dates with his band: The parties are strictly hen type, and very quiet so the children's sleep won't be disturbed. No drinks stronger than orange crush.

Dorothy Shay, the Park Avenue hillbilly, started out at the age of five singing hymns to convicts. Her grandpaw used to tote her down to the jail and let her go to work on the boys, on the theory that a little child might lead them to better ways . . . Milton Berle gives people he really loves nose bobs for Christmas and birthdays . . . Gertrude Lawrence loves to invent gadgets . . . Vocalist Ginnie Powell (Mrs. Boyd Raeburn in private life) uses carrot juice in her hair wash to bring out the red glints in her hair. She's a carrot top — but literally! . . . Viola Roache, the veteran actress in "Angel In The Wings," currently is celebrating her 40th year as a trooper. She made her professional stage debut in London in 1908 in "The College Widow," and once was a glamorous showgirl for the Shuberts in a "Passing Show." The Shuberts paid her $25 a week — 50 cents extra every time she went into the water for a diving number.

Bonnie-faced boniface Lynne Gilmore designed herself a shower stall to end all forms of exotic bathing and had it installed in her new Manhattan manse. It's rigged so that after the needle sprays shoot aqua pura in all directions, side sprays will exude a fragrant mist of Lynne's favorite cologne . . . Comedian Harvey Stone has had three rousing rows with his wife during the course of their otherwise blithe marriage — and each squabble has ended up as a comedy routine in Harvey's act. . . . The Duchess of Windsor has a secret passion for white mink. (All right, who hasn't?)

Says career-woman Fannie: "The career woman is a comic strip character to the new generation." . . . Judy Holliday, the pert heroine of "Born Yesterday," has a perpetual if not very serious feud going with all her biographers. They keep insisting she was born in the Bronx, and it's not that she has anything but nice things to say about the Bronx, but she was born in Manhattan . . . Woody Herman eats as many as 10 to 12 tomatoes a day — with meals and between meals. When traveling on one-nighters, he carries a crate of tomatoes in the trunk of his car.

Elisabeth Bergner gave the cast of "The Cup of Trembling" quite a scare at the final dress rehearsal when she stopped "cold" in the midst of a dramatic speech and stared downward for a matter of moments in what appeared to be dazed silence. Her husband-director, Paul Czinner, alarmed by this strange behavior, broke the trance by shouting, "Elisabeth! Is anything wrong?" . . . Whereupon the actress (who was seated on a misty pink couch in the play's living room set) murmured: "You know, I've just noticed this couch —it's exactly the color of my new Spring suit!"

Connie Sawyer, the California lark, has a quaint superstition. She owns a large jar of Malibu Beach sand which she lugs around with her. Vegetable Biscuit Roll Is Inexpensive and Nutritious

Among the most inexpensive and nutritious foods, vegetables deserve a place often as the main dish on a family's menu. When used in such a delicious hot biscuit roll as the one pictured here, topped with a savory sauce, your family will welcome them for lunch or supper. A tossed green salad with a tangy French dressing is the perfect accompaniment for this hot biscuit dish. A fine dessert would be one of fruit—perhaps a fruited custard. The eggs and milk in the custard will help add protein to the meal.

Almost any combination of vegetables is good in this biscuit roll, and of course it's an excellent way to use up leftovers. When you cook the vegetables remember the rules. First, use a small amount of water, slightly salted, and cook as short a time as possible—only until tender-crisp. Have the water boiling when you put the vegetables on to cook. Carrots, turnips, celery, onions, usually cook faster if sliced or diced. They are always in season and usually reasonably priced. Chockful of the minerals and vitamins we all need every day, it's the positive duty of every homemaker to use them often in family meals.

Save any liquid remaining after cooking the vegetables because it contains precious nutrients. Use it in gravies, soups, sauces. Instead of the tomato juice sauce suggested with this recipe try serving the biscuit roll sometimes with a well-flavored cream sauce which utilizes any leftover vegetable liquid for part of the milk called for. Flavor the cream sauce well with salt and pepper and a little fresh chopped parsley, or with dried herbs if you like.

VEGETABLE BISCUIT ROLL

- 2 cups enriched flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ⅔ teaspoon salt
- 4 to 6 tablespoons shortening
- ⅔ cup milk
- 1 cup cut up cooked vegetables (lima beans, carrots, snap beans or any other leftover vegetables)
- ¼ cup sliced mushrooms, sauteed

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add shortening and cut or rub it into the flour. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead lightly, roll out ¼-inch thick. Spread vegetables and mushrooms on dough and roll as a jelly roll. Bake on ungreased pan in hot oven (450 degrees F) approximately 25 minutes, or until biscuit is done. Slice and serve with the following sauce. Five servings.

TOMATO SAUCE

- 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine
- 1 tablespoon enriched flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- 1 cup tomato juice

Melt butter or fortified margarine in a small heavy saucepan over low heat. Add flour and seasonings, stirring until blended. Remove from heat and add tomato juice gradually, blending until smooth, after each addition. Cook over low or medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened.

Horoscope

For Wednesday, April 21.

UNDER the stress and tension of impending change, affecting the personal as well as business affiliations, there is danger of making false conclusions, under an emotional urge rather than on a basis of sound logic and reason. Such would prove vital to personal and financial security and advantage, especially since there are undercurrents of treachery, schemes and crafty associates. Shun all subtlety and lures, and take time to give realistic consideration to some sudden inspiration or bright idea. Novelty and ingenuity are likely to bring an original solution to critical plans.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves in a rather tight place, when quick decisions, with originality, innovations and keen analysis of existing circumstances, may find a happy solution to strange demands, by a flash of inspiration, when an emotional or spectacular impulse could exact serious penalties and substantial loss. Funds, friends, progress and peace of mind are involved, all being jeopardized by false contacts, subtlety, or influence of designing associates. Shun queer persons.

New Creek Bed Asked

Petitioners Request Channel Be Changed

County commissioners yesterday received a petition asking that a new channel be constructed for the Rocky Fork creek, north of Mansfield.

The petitioners asked that the channel be changed to run on the northeast side of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks starting at the steel mill.

At present, the channel crosses beneath the tracks, runs between the Pennsylvania and B. and O. railroads, then re-crosses the B. and O. tracks.

The new channel, 4,500 feet long, would run parallel to the B. and O. tracks in a northwesterly direction.

Commissioners set May 13 at 10 a. m. for viewing the proposed improvement, and May 19, same hour, for the first hearing on the petition in their offices.

The petitioners are Paul Bessemer, Karl Wilging and Karl Goettl.

Farmer of Future Might Do His Chores In Helicopter

CADIZ —(AP)— The prosperous farmer of the future, the Ohio Reclamation association said today, may be the one who tends to his chores in a helicopter.

The strange-looking aircraft, a spokesman for the association said, proved its value recently by sowing sweet clover and blue grass on 1,000 acres of strip mine land owned by the Hanna Coal company of Cadiz.

Although only 15 hours of flying time were required to cover the 1,000 acres, rain and high wind stretched the job over a nine-day period.

Officials who checked the experiment were surprised that the seeding showed such even distribution. They attributed this to the downbeat action of the rotor blades which held the seeds to a designated area.

A similar experiment may be held during the second Frontier day demonstration at Rio Grande college in September.

"The price of the helicopter undoubtedly make it prohibitive for the individual farmer," said Larry Cook, director of the Ohio Reclamation association. "However, the speed and effectiveness of its operation leads us to believe that groups of farmers may find it advantageous to share a helicopter."

The association has pioneered in Ohio in the use of the airplane for crop seeding, being the first group in the state to use both the conventional type airplane and the helicopter.

Cox Urges Tax Reform

Robert S. Cox of Millersburg visited Mansfield Monday seeking support in his campaign to win the Democratic nomination for governor.

"I am definitely opposed to any additional taxation in this state," he said in a statement. "Instead taxes could be reduced if the leaks could be stopped."

He said he believed the Ohio sales tax should be reduced and removed from medical and surgical supplies "because it hits the sick and afflicted who usually have trouble and expense enough without that."

Cox said further that "the Ohio liquor system needs a housecleaning."

"I believe we should put the permit holder on his honor, then if he violates his privilege put him out of business permanently by denying him a license," he said.

You can help lock the door against cancer

This is a story about a door and two keys. The story will have more point if, first, we state three facts:

- Every 3 minutes an American dies of cancer.
- 25% of those who die could have been saved.
- Many cancers can be cured—if detected in time.

Now here is the story. A door can be built to repel this deadly killer, but the door locks only if two keys are turned. Science holds one key. Your money can provide the other.

Your dollars support cancer research which some day may find the causes and cure of the disease. Your money supports an education program that teaches men and women how to recognize cancer in its early stages, when immediate treatment can save their lives.

Won't you help us lock the door?

Give as generously as you can. Give more than before. Give to guard those you love.

$1,000,000 Program Urged

Sewer Lines Antiquated, BeVier Says

Sanitary Engineer B. V. BeVier has told the sewer committee of the city council that sewer rates must be raised in order to finance a vitally necessary 10-year, $1,000,000 sewer improvement program.

BeVier hopes to rebuild many of the city's sewers, to straighten out kinks in the line and eventually to separate entirely the sanitary and storm sewer system.

It is that particular point that has caused so many sewers to back up with sanitary sewerage during heavy rains.

If the two systems can be separated, then flooded basements will be a thing of the past, he says.

LINES TOO SMALL

Other difficulties facing the city is such anomalies as six-inch sewer lines running into four-inch sewer lines, forcing the sewerage to back up and flood basements.

A third problem is seepage. To illustrate the nature of this problem, BeVier pointed to the following:

Tracing one sewer main from its beginning, during a rainstorm, he noted that it was empty at its source. But at the second manhole the sewer line was one-third full, yet there was not a single domestic inlet into the line before the second manhole.

He explained that the water seeped into the system because of faulty construction and just plain old age.

Divorces OK, Court Rules

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (U.P.) — The Arkansas supreme court Monday reversed a previous decision and legalized 1,750 questioned divorces.

Earlier the court had held that the divorces were invalid by ruling that a section of the 1947 law under which they were granted was unconstitutional.

In a five to two opinion handed down Monday, the court admitted it was in error on the previous ruling.
